

1. Title of Resolution

Including Privacy in BCLA's Values Statement

2. Rationale / Purpose for Resolution

Recent events concerning the fallout of Facebook's data practices have brought privacy concerns to the centre of public discussion once again. Public interest in privacy waxes and wanes but the importance of privacy remains as integral for the ability of people to pursue their needs and interests. BCLA has often advocated in the past against threats to privacy in legislation and elsewhere. Both the ALA Code of Ethics and the CFLA Code of Ethics enshrine privacy as a core concern. Including privacy as one of BCLA's core values would enhance the Association's ability to advocate for privacy protections in wider society, and would provide further guidance to its members on the importance of privacy in libraries.

3. Prior History of this Resolution (IF ANY)

4. Body of the Resolution (Action Proposed)

Whereas privacy is widely recognized as a core library value;

Whereas BCLA has historically engaged in advocacy surrounding privacy concerns;

Whereas privacy continues to be threatened by new technological and societal developments;

Whereas BCLA is planning to undertake a review of its Values Statement;

Be it resolved that BCLA adopt and include Privacy as part of its Values Statement. Possible wording would be:

Privacy

BCLA recognizes that protecting the privacy of library patrons and staff is critical to upholding its stated values regarding access and inclusion, intellectual freedom, innovation and creativity, diversity, literacy and lifelong learning, and accountability. BCLA advocates for robust privacy protections within libraries and society at large.
